Dr. HWANG Soonil is a Professor in the College of Buddhism at Dongguk University, Seoul, South Korea. His primary research interests include the doctrinal history of Early Buddhism and the study of Buddhist culture in South and Southeast Asia. He earned his D.Phil. from the University of Oxford, specializing in the doctrinal history of nirvana in Indian Buddhism.
Dr. Hwang has held visiting professorships at Al-Farabi Kazakh National University (2011), Chulalongkorn University (2012), and Saitama University (2013). His notable publications include Metaphor and Literalism in Buddhism (Routledge, 2006), Sermon of the One Hundred Days (Equinox, 2010), and Advent of Theravada Buddhism into Southeast Asia (Gasan Institute, 2018). He is a recipient of the Bulyi Academic Award (2008) and the SBS Seoam Fellowship (2011).
An experienced administrator, Dr. Hwang has served as the Dean of Academic Affairs and as Director of EBTI and Cultural Content at Dongguk University. Following a five-year term as Dean of the College of Buddhism (2020–2024), he completed a sabbatical as an external lecturer at Salzburg University, Austria, in 2025, before returning to his professorship at Dongguk University.
Email: sihwang@dgu.edu
Youtube: https://www.youtube.com/@minutebuddhism8210